

Anthony (Tony) Bennett was born in Dallas and grew up in Whitewright, Texas. At the age of 20, he moved back to Dallas and has called this city his home ever since. With no formal art training, Tony has developed his own unique style of art realism in both murals and on canvas. Of his many accomplishments, he has painted murals for 10 LeBlanc Food Stores (now Rouses) of Baton Rouge for companies including Coca-Cola, Budweiser, Lay's, Borden's, Zatarain's and several others.

While working in Baton Rouge, Tony realized South Louisiana was full of rich history, and through mural painting was able to recreate the bayous, plantations and many other buildings that were lost to hurricanes over the years. Tony says "I feel art is an illusion of life, and painting brings color and imagination together to be seen and enjoyed".

Tony also paints many faux finishes, including marble, granite and brick. "It's almost like painting a set for a stage play except with a unique finish for homes to have something that cannot be found in retail. Custom murals and faux finishes on fireplace mantels and cabinetry can completely change a room".

Tony also paints portraits and pet portraits. He also has many of his favorite works available in print.
